Sometimes, we run out of ideas. But when something strikes us, voilà – inspiration! This workshop at the Harvard Art Museum will explore how the interplay of past and present, tradition and innovation, objects and imagination have inspired artists across time. We will consider works of art on view, and then we will make creative connections of our own through a hands-on art-making activity.

- Limited to 12 freshmen
- Please sign-up by Friday, February 12, noon at www.fdo.fas.harvard.edu
